

New Fiction

STEPHEN F. AUSTIN STATE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Survival House

Stories of the Atomic Age

Short-Listed, the Rubery Book Award for Fiction (UK)

Who can resist the dark, comical allure of Miss Atomic Bomb 1957 pictured on the back cover? Wendell Mayo's stories perfectly capture America's wacky mind of doom of the 1950s and 1960s and that legacy in our time.

"Mayo's storytelling voice—explosively imaginative, rich with dark laughter, addictively readable—speaks for our historical moment. Survival House overlays the Cold War with its resurgent threat today."

—Sharona Muir, author of Invisible Beasts

"The strange figure of Mr. Quart is a creepy and enigmatic presence, whose Survival House has been built from the plans of a nuclear test explosion site....In Mr. Quart it seems a victim of American history has returned to take his revenge on the American Dream. A great assortment."

—Judges, the 2018 Rubery Book Award

ISBN: 9781622881895
Paperback; $18; 130 pages
Release: April 28, 2018
Stocklists: Ingram, Amazon

Contact: Kimberly Verhines
www.sfasu.edu/sfapress
verhinesk@sfasu.edu
Phone: 936.468.1078

Wendell Mayo is an award-winning author of five story collections, including two set in former-Soviet Lithuania.